About

The Terry Gordon Quintet's creative, adventurous approach to original music has been a hallmark of the band since its inception. The unified group sound springs from the experienced, creative players that make up the quintet, who not only have written the compositions featured by the group, but also thoroughly enjoy bringing that material to life in the company of one another, and for the enjoyment of jazz audiences everywhere.

With the combination of creative players and unique original compositions, the Terry Gordon Quintet has created its own distinctive brand of musical excitement.

Terry Gordon (trumpet, flugelhorn, composer): A graduate of Houghton College and Mansfield University, Terry performs regularly with several groups, and has appeared at the Montreal and Rochester International Jazz Festivals with Alex Torres y su Orquesta, and at the Cairo International Jazz Festival with the Arch Stanton Quartet. He also performs regularly with the Empire Jazz Orchestra, Keith Pray's Big Soul Ensemble, and Brass-O-Mania. He has appeared in programs with Bobby Rydell, Leslie Gore, The Temptations, Benny Golson, Randy Brecker, and David "Fathead" Newman. His recording credits include releases with the Terry Gordon Quintet, Alex Torres y Su Orquesta, the Arch Stanton Quartet, the Empire Jazz Orchestra, Colleen Pratt, Keith Pray's Big Soul Ensemble, the Joey Thomas Big Band, and Brass-O-Mania.

Eric Walentowicz (tenor and soprano saxes, flute, composer): Eric majored in Studio Music and Jazz at the University of Miami and North Texas State University. His teachers have included Ed Calle, Rick Margitza, Gary Campbell, Gary Keller, Andy Middleton, Bob Franceschini, Dave Tofani, Ted Nash, and Clemente Barone. He has backed such artists as George Merritt, Ray Anthony, Bobby Rydell, Fabian, Jerry Valle, and Eddie Fisher. In addition to the Terry Gordon Quintet, he is also a member of the Tim Olsen Big Band, the Mike Dimin Ensemble, New Regime, Body & Soul, as well as his own EW Quartet. His recording credits include releases with Mike Dimin, Ria Curley & Chuck D'Aloia, New Regime, Dr. Tim Olsen, the Joe Barna Quartet, Jeff Gonzales, and the Terry Gordon Quintet.

Michael-Louis Smith (guitar): Michael-Louis Smith's modern straight-ahead sound was influenced by many jazz greats, his unique style drawing upon almost any genre in an effort to explore and expand the possibilities of the music. Michael attended the Conservatory of Music at Purchase College, studying with many jazz luminaries. Since earning a Masters in Music in 2005, he has resided in New York City and continues to compose music for and tour regionally and nationally with the various ensembles he leads.

Bill Lawrence (bass, composer): A graduate of Oakland University, Bill has been a featured soloist and clinician at such venues as Kingdom Bound Music Festival, Inferno, Heartsong Festival, and the Eastern Regional Music and Arts Conference. An in-demand session player, Bill's bass tracks are on over 40 album projects to date. As a writer, Bill's music has been featured on C.D.s from his internet-based fusion group the Funkdawgs, as well as his solo bass C.D "Music From The Bass Guitar".

Matthew Maguire (drums, composer): Matthew has a wide range of performance experience dating back to 1973 with a variety of jazz and commercial bands, including as leader of the Matthew Maguire Quintet, and work with several professional and community theater groups including the Mac-Haydn Theater and the Empire State Youth Theater Institute. In addition to the Terry Gordon Quintet, Matthew also works as a freelance drummer, including performances with the Ray Alexander Trio.
